Activity Overview

Chinese percussion instruments have a long history and diverse varieties. Chinese ethnic percussion instruments are composed of metal, bamboo, wood, and leather, and they are widely used. One of the most common percussion instruments for children is the Chinese drum. Through creating a Chinese drum, children get to know its texture. After completing their creation, they enjoy tapping the drum surface while humming traditional songs like "Celebrating Mid-Autumn Festival" and "Dragon Boat Festival," experiencing the pleasure of playing traditional instruments.
